

Recommendation for Patrick Spike (Spike Consulting)

When I first met with Patrick it was a perfect connection. He clearly understood not only the direction of my website, but the intention of my "work". Patrick carefully and completely took me along the journey of developing my site. He asked the right questions and followed through with creative ideas of his own. He was able to access resources that enhanced the presentation and services available on the site.

Creating my website was part of my personal journey - it offered me a way to give "visual voice" to my purpose and work. Patrick made that a very gentle and professional process.
